CHINESE SOUVENIR MEDALS, FORGERIES AND FANTASY COINS

The late Eduard Kann, in his monumental "Illustrated Catalogue of Chinese Coins," deals explicitly with the numerous Chinese forgeries and fantasy pieces, as well as with those medals that are too frequently assumed to be coins. A forgery will sooner or later be recognized by the experienced collector. The "Fantasy Coins" are something else again because the originals never existed.

Of course, there is something to be said for this last category. They are at least decorative. But as Kann notes, "Fantasy coins of Chinese vintage are decorative imagery, supplemented by whimsical inscriptions, designed and struck by private parties working 'underground'." He adds, "fantasy pieces are imaginary creations of unauthorized fabricators."

Fortunately, Kann listed and illustrated a good number of these medals, fakes and fantasies in his book. The examples offered here have all been given their Kann numbers, or Plate numbers, where possible. Almost without exception, they are very clever and sophisticated casts. It is interesting that forgeries in Lots 621 and 622 clearly come from the same workshop that produced fantasies described in Lots 643, 644, 645 and 647. They share one conspicuous characteristic in common. All of them are "sandwiches," constructed of two plates of silver with a center of base metal. The similarities between the two categories point an obvious moral.

The author makes it quite plain in his book that the dubious pieces listed are only those he himself found, and probably many more exist. The rather extensive collection described below has disclosed several additional specimens unknown to Kann.

No attempt has been made to provide estimates for the items just discussed. No doubt they will bring a price appropriate to the attraction they have for the individual collector.
